

The ARCHER Study

A Potential Next Step for Children with Tourette's Disorder

Is your child struggling with uncontrolled tics or Tourette's Disorder?

The ARCHER Study may be an option. It's a clinical research study evaluating an investigational medication to see if it helps reduce the number and severity of tics in children. It is sponsored by Otsuka Pharmaceutical Development & Commercialization, Inc. and is enrolling participants at research centers throughout the United States.*

All study participants will receive the following at no cost:

- Access to a study doctor who has experience in Tourette's Disorder and research
- Study medications (investigational medication or placebo)
- Study-related care and visits

To learn more about the ARCHER Study and to see if your child may be eligible, please visit www.ArcherStudy.com.

**Travel assistance may be available at no cost to study participants who are not located near a study location.*